Florida Company Unveils World's First "Man Wall"

Tampa, Florida – A Bradenton, Florida company is rolling out the world's first "Man Wall" and it's the ultimate big boy toy. The fully integrated unit comes complete with four TV's, a full-size built-in beer keg with refrigerator and tap, a live sports ticker, a microwave oven, two cigar humidors, a five-speaker home theater surround sound system, I-Pod docking station and a wine rack. The innovation is the brainchild of two designers who saw a gap in the rising popularity of "Man Rooms."

HybridSpace, LLC, the company that manufactures the unit came up with the idea after realizing that there is nothing on the market for the consumer who wants instant gratification. Currently, you either spend weeks building your own Man Room or pay somebody else to do it for you. Either way, you will be inconvenienced for several weeks while the room is under construction. This is for the guy who doesn't have the time to build his own man room or simply wants one of the coolest gadgets on the planet.

"This is the Taj Mahal of Man Room accessories, it has everything but the kitchen sink and we only left that out to make room for the full-size kegerator," said co-designer Vince Caruso. "This is the first time that a company is offering one-stop shopping for a Man Room, it would take weeks to build something of this magnitude yet we can have it to you in three to five days."

Innovative technology separates the futuristic unit from anything on the market, boasting a matrix splitter that allows all four TV's to be controlled by one remote. The enthusiastic sports fan can watch four different games at one time or one game on all four TV's. Sleek looking panels hide the cable boxes and gaming units while a high-tech remote eye makes wires and cables virtually invisible. The surround sound system packs a punch with a booming Kelton Subwoofer with dual diameter structure, Whisper-Mode technology and wireless rear speakers, all designed to deliver big sound and eliminate clutter. It also features a 1080p up-conversion function that converts standard definition images from DVD sources to high definition images. Add a built-in Universal Dock for your iPod, a 100 watt microwave oven, two 50-cigar humidors with built-in gauges, a wine rack and a seven foot wide sports ticker continuously updating scores and you can see why this is the perfect gadget for the consummate male.

Hidden beneath the sleek looks of the Man Wall is the fact that the ultra cool unit merges space-saving technology with modern day practicality. Measuring a mere two feet deep, eight feet wide and just under eight feet tall, the Jetson-like system takes up about a third of the space as each component would separately. Consequently, even if a person has limited space capacity, he will still have all of the amenities, or as some guys see it, necessities of the modern day Man Cave.

“Besides looking like something you would see on MTV Cribs, the Man Wall is extremely practical in that it will fit in almost any size room,” Caruso said.

“Additionally, by having all of the components fully integrated you no longer see that rats nest of cables and wires normally associated with numerous components.”

The units are sold completely ready to go including all four TVs, surround sound system, wires, cables, and a full years service for the sports ticker. The company has added a custom division that can accommodate almost any request from adding a fireplace and up to eight more TVs to painting the unit in the colors of your favorite sports team.
